Dr. Nicholas Vitanza is a pediatric neuro-oncologist at Seattle Children's Hospital and research scientist at the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center.

He is one of the board members of Mithil Prasad Foundation.

Mithil Prasad was a vibrant, brilliant, funny 13-year-old boy who lost his life to DIPG, a deadly incurable brain tumor. As the only way to move forward, his family started a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization in his memory to support DIPG Research and Patients.
